Statement & Contents

This is Sam Robinson's Campaign Action Plan, a comprehensive list of how we plan to accomplish each item on our platform.

Previous candidates for Student Body President have offered exhaustive lists of goals they hope to achieve, but none in recent memory have offered measurable plans for each goal in their agenda.

We cannot promise that each item on the platform will work out how we want, but we can promise you that we have actionable steps to move the needle on each and every issue we will confront.

Food Security

Student Government Food Pantry

—Flagship Policy Proposal—

The Food Pantry is the largest single project on the platform and the project with the most potential to change students' lives for the better. Most of our peer institutions have large, well-funded, and institutionally-supported food pantries; Feed the Pack's budget is more than $90,000/year.

Most studies on food insecurity on college campuses find that between a quarter and a third of students are unsure whether they will be able to afford enough food. Based on these facts and our conversations with students who have experienced food insecurity, we believe that the current resources on campus are wildly insufficient: Carolina needs a dedicated, institutional push to prioritize food security.

Principle One: Foundation

Building a food pantry program isn't easy. We will be counting on future administrations to build on the foundation we lay, so the foundation must be sound. We will focus on institution building; the food pantry will be an independent agency of student government with leadership buy-in from both Graduate and Undergraduate student government. The pantry will need a robust system for recruiting volunteers, and those volunteers should be given a path to eventually become leaders in the organization.

Principle Two: Location

Location is vital to a food bank on a college campus: a food bank doesn't do as much good if it isn't located where people can find it and get to it. If push comes to shove, we will run the pantry out of the President's office and Sam can take his meetings at Alpine, but a dedicated space at the center of campus life would be ideal. The Student Union is well-placed for this.

Principle Three: Funding

The Robinson Administration will seek a substantial amount of funding from Undergraduate and Graduate Senate for this project. This year, the Executive Branch was allocated more than $60,000: we would redirect the lion's share of that funding to the food pantry. We will also seek funding from donors, grants, and the University. Over time, the organization will become more adept at fundraising, reducing its strain on student government resources substantially. Many food pantries at peer institutions run on a donation-only basis; we hope to bootstrap our program into a high level of competency with direct funding from student government while fundraising can be ramped up.

Principle Four: Programs

A food pantry's primary mission is simple: give food to those who need it, but a truly successful food security program needs to do more than that, especially at a University where preparing food can be time-consuming and challenging. The food pantry will also work to teach students how to prepare easy, healthy meals, as well as providing prepared meals on a regular basis to the student body. We plan to partner with a wide array of student organizations to provide prepared food, with a particular eye towards cultural organizations.

Principle Five: Funding

A food pantry isn't of much use if it just disappears if the next administration doesn't show much interest in it. We will embed the food pantry into governing documents to ensure it is able to function autonomously and continuously, modeling its structure on Student Legal Services, a successful similar project.

Mental Health

1) Learn to Win

- JUNE & JULY, 2022

We will begin collaborating with Learn to Win to develop an orientation program for Carolina students to learn about mental health resources. Learn to Win has already tried to work with student government before and was rebuffed by the Director of Student Wellness and Safety; we would renew this partnership.

2) Mental Health First Aid Training

- MARCH & APRIL, 2022

Working with the Senate, we will pass a bill requiring this training for all members of Student Government.

3) Permit private contributions to CAPS

- MAY-JULY, 2022

State and External Affairs will work to identify what rules and regulations bar private donations to CAPS and develop a plan to circumvent or change them.

4) CAPS Oversight Council

- MAY & JUNE, 2022

The Robinson Administration will complete all necessary legislation, and liaise with CAPS and administration to create the Oversight Council.

- AUGUST-OCTOBER, 2022

Fill all seats on the committee with students, instructors, and staff.

- NOVEMBER, 2022 - MARCH, 2023

The Oversight Council, the Robinson Administration, and student leaders and organizations will coordinate to pressure CAPS and University administration to take the following actions:

1. End deadlines for joining grief groups,

2. Stop reporting mental health funding programs to GradStar, which reduces financial aid awards,

3. Vet the external therapists list to allow students to filter therapists based on what insurance they accept, specialty area, etc., and

4. Provide CAPS representatives to curricula committees to ensure mental health is an important consideration in curriculum development.

Sexual Assault

1) EDANow Pledge

- INAUGURATION DAY, APRIL, 2022
On Inauguration Day, Sam will sign the ED Act Now pledge and direct the Federal Affairs section of SEA to create a plan to lobby the Department of Education to roll back DeVos-era changes to Title IX enforcement which limit UNC's ability to pursue and expel abusers.

2) Communicate with representatives from high-risk areas

- APRIL & MAY, 2022
The Robinson Administration will have nominated students to all vacant seats on the Student Safety and Security Committee, allowing the Committee to reinstate funding for SafeWalk which had lapsed while the Committee was allowed to become defunct.

- THROUGHOUT THE TERM
The Administration will advocate for and work to support and fund organizations dedicated to addressing sexual violence through the Department of Student Organization Outreach. Many organizations are already working in this area and their closer vantage point gives them a better understanding of what interventions will be effective and what resources they need.

3) Reform CAPS Sexual Assault Groups

- JUNE & JULY, 2022
The Robinson Administration will work with CAPS to create support groups for male students or to make some support groups gender-neutral to ensure male survivors of sexual violence also receive support from CAPS

Academic Policy

1) MFIT Referendum

● SEPTEMBER, 2022

If an MFIT class moves towards becoming part of the general education curriculum, the Robinson Administration will insist that a referendum of the student body be taken on the matter; such a course can only be successful if it has wide buy-in from the student body.

2) Grade forgiveness

● MAY & JUNE, 2022

The Robinson Administration will assemble a task force to investigate the uses and impacts of grade forgiveness at other universities, particularly at our peer institutions. This research will become the basis of the Robinson Administration's push for UNC to reimplement grade forgiveness to ensure Carolina students have a fair shot on the job market and when applying to graduate schools

Student Rights

1) Living wage and pay-to-work

● THROUGHOUT THE TERM

The Robinson Administration will be a strong advocate for workers on campus by advocating for collective action, publicizing the needs of workers, and supporting the rights of workers without whom Carolina could not exist.

Coronavirus Pandemic

1) Guarantee virtual class option

THROUGHOUT THE TERM

The Robinson Administration will advocate that all classes offer a virtual option. When students are not forced to choose between isolating when they are sick and attending class, the whole community will be safer, and classes with virtual options are substantially more accessible to students.

2) Protect and expand testing access

APRIL, 2022

Sam will meet with the Chancellor and Provost within the week of his inauguration to assess the latest information on the coronavirus pandemic and the state of the University's responses.

In this meeting, Sam will advocate for increasing availability of testing to meet the real demands of the pandemic.

THROUGHOUT THE TERM

As long as the pandemic continues to affect students' lives, the Administration will advocate for accessible testing at a level responsive to the needs of the student body.

Carolina in the Community

Environmental Affairs

2) Fossil Fuel Divestment

INAUGURATION DAY, APRIL, 2022

Immediately after being sworn in, Sam will call an emergency meeting of the Board of Trustees for a public vote on fossil fuel divestment. This will allow for public discussion of the secretive practices of the UNC Management Company with the board, set an expectation of accountability, and offer a measure of investment carbon intensity.

3) Cleaning our electricity mix & moving on from coal

INAUGURATION DAY, APRIL, 2022

We will release fuel input level information from the cogeneration plant to the public, ask that these levels are reflected in the Climate Action Plan, and demand clarity on a timeline for when coal will be eliminated as a fuel source.

MAY & JUNE, 2022

Assess and release a report on the ability for Carolina to engage with the new Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) that North Carolina recently entered.

SEPTEMBER, 2022

The Robinson Administration will work with the Carolina Sustainability Council to update the Climate Action Plan in relation to the Green Source Advantage Program, which expires in December 2022. The Sustainability Council says that they are “exploring” options for how to work with this program to bring large amounts of renewable energy to Carolina, but has not expanded or updated students on what that means. President Robinson will attend the first available Sustainability Council meeting after inauguration and get answers.

Environmental Affairs

4) Broaden green fee impact

AUGUST & SEPTEMBER, 2022

The Director for Environmental Affairs will work with the Co-Chairs of the Renewable Energy Special Projects Committee to discuss strategies to broaden the student green fee, such as developing a sustainability projects fund.

SEPTEMBER, 2022

President Robinson will attend the Center Student Composting first volunteer pickup day of the fall, if welcome, to bring attention to these efforts

7) Green Gears training

FEBRUARY & MARCH, 2022

Supply RSO creation and funding guidelines to support the Environmental Ethics Pod in the Parr Center for Ethics. If they choose to pursue RSO status, this would allow the Green Gears training to expand its reach across campus and provide stipends for students providing the training.
